Background

Nichols Consulting Engineers, Chtd. (NCE) was selected by the Lake County City Area Planning Council in 2011 to update the pavement management program. The network is comprised of approximately 510.1 centerline miles, of which 13.1 are arterials, 180.5 are collectors, 314.8 are residential/local streets, and 1.7 miles are other streets.

The unit costs of the pavement maintenance strategies were also updated based on recent bid tabs from 2010/2011. Then, a budget needs analysis was performed. In addition, three budgetary scenarios were analyzed. This report presents an executive summary of our analyses.

Purpose

The purpose of this report is to assist decision makers in utilizing the results of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) StreetSaver Program. Specifically, this report links the recommended repair program costs to Lake County's current and projected budget alternatives to improve overall maintenance and rehabilitation strategies. This report assesses the adequacy of ideal and projected revenues to meet the maintenance needs recommended by the PMP program. It also maximizes the return from expenditures by:

- (1) implementing a multi-year road rehabilitation and maintenance program;
- (2) developing a preventative maintenance program; and
- (3) selecting the most cost effective repairs.

This report assists Lake County with identifying maintenance priorities specific to its needs. This study examines the overall condition of the road network and highlights options for improving the current network-level pavement condition index (PCI). These options are developed by conducting "what-if" analyses using Lake County's pavement management system database. By varying the budget amounts available for pavement maintenance and repair, one can show how different funding strategies can impact the County's roads over the next five years.

Network Description

Lake County is responsible for the management, repair and maintenance of approximately 510 centerline miles, or 1,228 sections. The table below summarizes the lengths of the roads in the network by functional class.

TABLE 1. Network Summary Statistics for Lake County.

Functional Class	Sections	Centerline Miles	Lane Miles
Arterial	10	13.1	26.3
Collector	207	180.5	361.0
Residential/Local	1,005	314.8	626.4
Other	6	1.7	1.8
Total	1,228	510.1	1,015.4

The network replacement cost is defined as the reconstruction of all the pavement sections in the County. The network replacement cost of the County's pavements is estimated at $402.8 million. This is approximately $65.5 million less than replacement cost estimated in 2008 due to lower unit prices in 2011 when compared to 2008. Details of the network inventory can be found in Section 1 of this report.

Pavement Current Condition

The pavement condition index, or PCI, is a measurement of pavement grade or condition and ranges from 0 to 100. A newly constructed road would have a PCI of 100, while a failed road would have a PCI of 10 or less. The average 2011 PCI of the street network of the County is 41, which is in "poor" condition. There has been some improvement in network PCI between 2008 and 2011 surveys. The average PCI improved from 32 to 41, essentially due to the maintenance and rehabilitation (approximately 29 miles) performed by the County in the past three years. Figure 1 illustrates the definitions of the pavement condition categories.

The County has been utilizing surface treatments like scrub seals, single or double chip seals as means of preventive maintenance on pavements that are in “fair” condition or above. When the pavement condition deteriorates, overlays, cold-in-place recycling and full depth reclamation have been performed. Deep patching is commonly used as preparation prior to overlays. These treatments are formalized in the maintenance and rehabilitation decision tree as shown in Section 2.

Table 2 below, summarizes the average condition of the road network by functional class. There is some improvement from 2008, which is due to significant maintenance and rehabilitation work that has occurred in the County in the past three years. The historical records show that approximately 29 miles of roads have been sealed, rehabilitated or reconstructed. Detailed section condition can be found in Section 2 of this report.

TABLE 2. Pavement Condition Summary by Functional Classification (2011)

Functional Class	2008 Average PCI (weighted by area)	2011 Average PCI (weighted by area)
Arterial	30	52
Collector	36	47
Residential/Local	29	37
Other	65	63
All	32	41

Approximately 17.7% of the County's pavement area is in the "good" or "excellent" condition category and 18.1% in "fair" condition. The remaining 64.2%, which is slightly below two third of the pavement area, falls in "poor" condition or below (Figure 2 summarizes the percent of pavement area by condition category). This is a significant improvement in network PCI condition from 2008 when approximately 77% of network was in "poor" condition or below.

Budget Needs

Based on the principle that it costs less to maintain roads in good condition than those in bad conditions, StreetSaver strives to develop a maintenance strategy that will improve the overall condition of the network to an optimal PCI and then sustain it at that level. The average 2011 PCI of the network is 41, which corresponds to the "poor" condition category, which indicates that a significant portion of the network suffers from load-related distresses. If these are not addressed, the quality of the road network will continue to decline. In order to correct these deficiencies, a cost-effective funding and maintenance and rehabilitation strategy must be implemented.

The first step in developing a cost-effective maintenance and rehabilitation strategy is to determine the maintenance "needs" of the roadway network. Using the StreetSaver budget needs module, maintenance needs over the next five years were estimated at approximately $112.8 million for the County. If the County follows the strategy recommended by the program, the average network PCI will increase to 86. The results of the budget needs analysis are summarized in the table below. These results were calculated based on updated unit costs provided by the County.

TABLE 3. Summary of Results from Needs Analysis

Year	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	Total
PCI Treated	79	76	78	80	86	NA
PCI Untreated	41	37	33	30	27	NA
Preventive Maint. ($M)	0.50	0.16	0.06	0.05	0.07	0.84
Rehab. ($M)	69.8	12.4	8.7	10.9	10.1	111.9
Total Needs ($M)	70.3	12.6	8.8	11.0	10.1	112.8

Table 3 illustrates the level of expenditures required to raise the pavement condition to a network PCI goal of 86 and eliminate the current maintenance backlog. The results of the budget needs analysis represent the ideal funding strategy recommended by the StreetSaver program. Of the $112.8 million in maintenance needs shown, approximately $0.84 million (0.75 percent) is earmarked for preventive maintenance or life extending treatments, while all the rest (99.25 percent) is allocated for the more costly rehabilitation and reconstruction treatments. When compared to 2008 PMS analysis (for five year period from 2008 to 2012), the total maintenance needs for 2011 has reduced from $264 million to $112.8 million. This is primarily due to the more cost effective rehabilitation options, full depth reclamation and cold-in-place recycling, that the County has adopted for the current analysis period against conventional and more costly reconstruction options used in 2008. Furthermore, a decrease in construction prices over the last 3 years has also contributed to the decrease in maintenance and rehabilitation needs.

Figure 3, below, demonstrates that pavement maintenance follows the old colloquial saying of "pay me now, or pay me more later." History has shown that it costs much less to maintain roads in good condition than to repair roads that have failed. By allowing pavements to deteriorate, roads that once cost $2.00 per square yard ($/sy) to scrub seal may soon cost $27.9/sy to recycle/overlay or $62.0/sy for full depth reclamation. In other words, delays in repairs can result in costs increasing as much as 30-fold. Again, due to the reasons detailed in the previous paragraph, the unit costs for individual rehabilitation treatments has reduced significantly from 2008 PMS analysis (from $52.65/sy for overlays and $133.3/sy for reconstruction to unit costs values detailed in Figure 3). With the new rehabilitation options, the County will be able to stretch the value of the available dollars and better take care of the pavement network with the limited funds available.

Budget Scenarios

Having determined the maintenance needs of the road network, the next step in developing a cost-effective maintenance and rehabilitation strategy is to conduct several "what-if" analyses. Using the StreetSaver budget scenario module, the impacts of various budget "scenarios" can be evaluated. The program projects the effects of the different scenarios on pavement condition index (PCI) and deferred maintenance (backlog). By examining the effects on these indicators, the advantages and disadvantages of different funding levels and maintenance strategies become clear. The following scenarios were performed for the purposes of this report.

Scenario 1. $1.1 Million Per Year (County Budget) – This scenario shows how the network changes under the current funding level. The condition of the network will deteriorate to a PCI of 40 by 2016 and the deferred maintenance backlog will increase to $94.9 million.

Scenario 2. $2.3 Million Per Year (Improve PCI to 50) – In this scenario, the County would require an annual budget of $ 2.3 million in order to improve the current County network PCI from 41 to 50. A deferred maintenance backlog of $90.2 million would remain at the end of the next five years.

Scenario 3. $6 Million Per Year (Improve PCI to 60) - In this scenario, the County would require an annual budget of $6.0 million in order to improve the County network PCI from 41 to 60. A deferred maintenance backlog of $80.0 million would remain at the end of the next five years.

Note: Deferred maintenance consists of pavement maintenance that is needed, but cannot be performed due to lack of funding. Shrinking budgets have forced many cities and counties to defer much-needed road maintenance. By deferring maintenance, not only does the frequency of citizens' complaints about the condition of the network increase, but the cost to repair these streets rises as well.

More detailed results of the budget needs scenarios can be found in Section 3 of this report.

Scenario 1: $1.1 Million Per Year (County Budget)

This scenario assumes a County budget of $1.1 million per year over the next five years. The results of this scenario indicate that the network PCI will decrease to 40 and 43.3% of the network will fall in the very poor or failed condition category by 2016. The backlog of work will increase to about $94.9 million by 2016.

Scenario 2: $2.3 Million Per Year (Increase PCI to 50)

For this scenario, with an annual budget of $2.3 million, the current PCI will increase from 41 to 50 in five years. The backlog of work will increase from $67.9 to $90.2 million by the year 2016. By 2016, 32.2% of the network will fall in the very poor or failed condition category.

FIGURE 5. PCI vs. Deferred Maintenance for $2.3 Million Per Year

Scenario 3: $6 Million Per Year (Increase PCI to 60)

For this scenario, the County's PCI will be improved to the value of 60 for the next five years. This requires an annual budget of $6 million. However, the backlog of work would still increase from $64.3 million to $80.0 million by the year 2016. By 2016, 61.0% of the network will fall into the good or excellent condition category, but 29.9% will still fall in the very poor or failed condition category.

The following two figures graphically illustrate the annual changes in PCI and deferred maintenance as outlined in each scenario.

Figure 7 (below) illustrates the change in PCI over time for the different budget scenarios. Scenario 1 (Current Budget) lowers the current network PCI of 41 to 40 in five years, Scenario 2 ($ 2.3 Million Per Year) will improve the current network PCI of 41 to 50 by 2016, and Scenario 3 ($6.0 Million Per Year) will improve the network PCI from 41 to 60 in five years.

Figure 8 illustrates the change in deferred maintenance over time for the different budget scenarios. Note that in all cases the amount of deferred maintenance continues to increase significantly over time.

Summary

The average network PCI for the County has increased from 32 to 41 in the last 3 years. This can be attributed to the maintenance and rehabilitation work (approx. 29 miles) performed in the past 3 years.

Less than 18 percent of the network is currently in good condition to excellent condition and approximately 64 percent is in poor or failed condition. This is a significant improvement from 2008 when more than 75 percent of the network was in poor or failed condition.

For the existing budget of $1.1 million per year, the network average PCI of 41 is projected to decrease to 40 in five years.

A significant amount of money is further needed to bring the network streets into the “good to excellent” condition category. For the next five years, it will require at least $2.3 million per year to improve the average network PCI to 50, and significantly more ($6 million per year) to improve the network condition to 60.

Recommendations

It is recommended that Lake County increase its current funding level to at least $2.3 million per year if the County intends to improve the current network PCI to 50 in the next 5 years. The new maintenance and rehabilitation strategies adopted by the County provide significant cost savings when compared to traditional methods and can stretch the value of available dollars. However, the cost estimates and the needs analysis provided in the report does not account for inflation (2011 dollars). We encourage the County to consider fluctuations in construction costs and account for inflation prior to preparing construction cost estimates.

In order to keep the data up to date, it is also recommended that arterial and collector streets be inspected every two years and residential streets every four to five years. Since the pavement treatment costs vary and the pavement maintenance technique develops, the decision tree and the associated unit costs should be reviewed and modified (if necessary) when the database is updated.

Section 4 provides a list of sections selected for treatment for Scenario 3.

Financing Alternatives

In light of the substantial financial commitment that is required to significantly maintain or even improve county wide road conditions, and the increase in construction and raw material costs, it is relevant to discuss the various possible financing alternatives to help fund pavement rehabilitation and preventative maintenance for the County. The following alternatives are some of the possible ways that the County should consider to generate additional revenue to fund needed rehabilitation and maintenance of County roads.

- 1) Truck Route Permit Fee – Leverages a surcharge fee on trucks for use of County roads to help recoup the costs of heavy wheel loads imposed by truck traffic.
- 2) Residential Waste Collection Fee – Surcharge is leveraged on waste companies to account for damage to pavement incurred by heavy waste collection trucks.

- 3) Development Repairs – Fees assessed to new developments to account for increased traffic associated with new residential and commercial tenants.
- 4) Establish Utility Cut Impact Fee – Fee is leveraged against utility to provide compensation for reduced pavement life due to utility cuts and patches.
- 5) Pursue Local Transportation Sales Tax Measures
- 6) Devote More Local Sales Tax/Revenues to Road Maintenance
- 7) Establish Downtown and Business Improvement Districts
- 8) Establish Countywide Assessment Districts

Glossary

Deferred Maintenance	This is maintenance work that is deferred to a future budget cycle, or postponed until funds are available. The failure to perform needed repair, maintenance, and renewal by normal maintenance management creates deferred maintenance, also called “Backlog”.
Functional Class	Defines the primary function of a particular pavement section. The four classes are: A (Arterial), C (Collector), R (Residential), and O (Other).
Network	All the roads in the county that includes arterial, collector, and residential roads.
PCI	Pavement Condition Index - measured on a scale of 0 (failed) to 100 (excellent), PCIs can be calculated from inspection units and applied maintenance treatments.
PMP	Pavement Management Program
PM%	Percentage of each year's budget that has been set aside for preventive maintenance activities such as slurry seals.
Preventative Maintenance	These are treatments that are applied to pavements with a PCI greater than 70. They include treatments such as crack seals or slurry seals and are intended to preserve the pavement. However, it does not extend the structural service life of the pavement.
Rehabilitation	These are treatments that are applied for pavements with a PCI less than 70. Typically, they include overlays and reconstruction and are intended to extend the structural life of the pavement.
Replacement Cost	Cost to replace the entire pavement structure e.g. asphalt concrete and aggregate base.
Treatment	Repair activities that are applied to restore either the functional or structural deficiencies of the pavement.

Appendix B: M&R Treatment Description

Brief Description of Maintenance and Rehabilitation Treatments

Crack Sealing

Crack Sealing is the placement of polymerized/rubberized asphalt materials into cracks that bond to the crack walls and move with the pavement. This technique is used to fill longitudinal and transverse cracks, including joint reflection cracks from underlying PCC slabs that are 1/8" to 1/2" wide. The primary purpose of crack sealing in Asphalt Concrete (AC) pavement is to prevent surface water infiltration into the substructure of pavement and to prevent the debris stay in the cracks. It is more cost effective to use this technique as preventative maintenance when the overall pavement condition is in good condition. Sealing cracks on a deteriorated pavement surface is not cost effective and will not provide any structural benefit to the road.

Fog seal

A Fog seal involves the spraying of a light coat of a bituminous material (typically 0.03 to 0.05 gallon per square yard) on the surface of an existing pavement using a distributor. It is used to reduce raveling while also improving waterproofing. Fog seals are especially good for treating pavements that carry light traffic such as parking lots.

Slurry seals

A slurry Seal consists of a graded aggregate, asphalt emulsion, mineral filler, water, and additives. It is a hard wearing surface for pavement preservation. Slurry Seals are used primarily on aged and raveled pavements, filling minor cracks, restoring skid resistance and adding aesthetic appeal. It may be used on low volume streets and parking lots. Larger cracks need to be individually treated before the application of a slurry seal. The surface is smoother than a chip seal treatment and is more "surface friendly". In general, slurry seal can be categorized into three types which depend on the maximum aggregate size in the mix. Type I slurry seals usually contain maximum aggregate size of 1/8"; Type II slurry seals usually contain maximum aggregate size of 1/4"; and Type III slurry seals usually contain maximum aggregate size of 3/8".

Scrub seals

A scrub seals are a polymer modified asphalt layer applied to an asphalt pavement surface and scrubbed into the cracks and voids with a broom. A layer of sand or small aggregate is then applied over the asphalt and then scrubbed over again, forcing the mix into the cracks and voids to form a seal. It is used to fill and seal small cracks and voids, as well as to enrich hardened/oxidized asphalt. Many contractors are still unfamiliar with the scrub seal method, so tests may be needed to determine what emulsion or polymer-modified emulsion would work with the brooms.

Chip seal

Chip seals are the application of asphalt and aggregate chips rolled onto the pavement. In the United States, chip seals are typically used on rural roads carrying lower traffic volumes. It is used to seal the surface of a pavement with non-load associated cracks, and to improve surface friction. During the treatment, the roadway can be opened to low-speed traffic just after the application of the aggregate. However, it requires constant attention and frequent adjustment of aggregate application rates to minimize chip loss, loose aggregates, and bleeding. Windshields can be damaged by the loose aggregate before the excess is removed and dust can be created during the brooming of the loose aggregate. Double chip seals are common for more high volume roads.

Cape Seals

A cape is the application of a chip seal followed by a slurry seal or microsurfacing within a few days of the initial treatment. Cape Seals are used where a chip seal is too rough and when a smooth finish is required e.g. in the residential streets. In instances where cracking is a problem, a polymer or asphalt rubber modified chip seal can alleviate cracking and the slurry provides the smooth surface. It can increase the life of a chip seal by enhancing binding of the chips and by protecting the surface.

Microsurfacing

Microsurfacing consists of graded aggregates, asphalt emulsion, mineral filler, water and other additives. Compare to slurry seal, microsurfacing uses better quality aggregates and a fast setting emulsion of higher stiffness allowing thicker layers to be placed. Thus, it is usually used in the more specialized slurry jobs of rut filling, restoring surface profiles, and for roads that sustain heavy traffic. It also has quicker cure time, but the cost is higher than a slurry or chip seal treatment.

Ultrathin Bonded Wearing Surface

An ultrathin bonded wearing surface is a specially formulated thin asphalt mix overlay. Ultra-thin bonded wearing surface is placed with a specially built machine that places a thick layer of oil and asphalt in a single pass. The heavy oil application seals small cracks in the existing pavement and helps to ensure the adhesion of the asphalt to the underlying pavement. The ultrathin mat, usually ranges from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ inches thick. The treatment is primarily used to provide a durable, friction resistant surface on existing pavement, without the expense of milling the existing asphalt. But the cost for this application is high, and it needs special construction equipment.

Hot-Mix Asphalt (HMA) Overlay

This technique involves adding an HMA layer to an existing HMA or PCC pavement. It is used to correct or improve the structural capacity or functional requirements such as skid resistance and ride quality. The use of an HMA overlay is usually more economic when the existing pavement is still in good to fair condition. An overlay may be combined with other M&R methods such as cold milling, cold recycling, hot recycling, and heater scarification. The thickness of the new surface will be dependent on the type, severity and extent of the pavement surface distresses, the ride quality and the required structural improvement necessary to accommodate the design traffic.

Rubberized Hot-Mix Asphalt (RHMA)

Rubberized hot-mix asphalt concrete (RHMA) is a road paving material made by blending ground-up recycled tires with asphalt to produce a binder which is then mixed with conventional aggregate materials. This mix is then placed and compacted into a road surface. There are two primary types of binders for RHMA, asphalt-rubber and terminal blend. Asphalt-Rubber is a blend of paving grade asphalt cement, ground recycled tire rubber and other additives, as needed, for use as binder in pavement construction. The rubber shall be blended and interacted in the hot asphalt cement sufficiently to cause swelling of the rubber particles prior to use. The asphalt-rubber binder is field blended (at the hot mix plant) and requires specialized mobile mixing equipment to produce. Typical crumb rubber modifier (CRM) content for asphalt-rubber ranges from 18-22 percent. The crumb rubber modifier used in asphalt-rubber is in the 10-16 mesh range. Terminal blends are binder materials that use finely ground (less than 30 mesh) crumb rubber modifier and are typically blended at the asphalt refinery. Historically, terminal blend binders contained 10 percent or less crumb rubber modifier. However, in recent years the crumb rubber modifier content has been increased to 15-20 percent in some projects. The major advantages of using the RHMA are better resistance to reflective cracking and more environmental friendly which help to use recycled tires.

Reconstruction

Reconstruction, which might be considered as the ultimate or extreme rehabilitation treatment, consists of the removal of the pavement structure which can go down to the subgrade, reworking and recompacting the subgrade, and completely replacing the pavement layers with new, or recycled materials, or a combination thereof.

Cold In-Place Recycling

Cold in-place recycling involves cold milling of the pavement surface, addition of emulsified asphalt, Portland cement or other modifiers to improve the properties of the original asphalt concrete mix followed by screeding and compaction of the reprocessed material in one continuous operation. The use of cold in-place recycling can restore old pavement to the desired profile, eliminate existing wheel ruts, restore the crown and cross slope, and eliminate pothole, irregularities and rough areas. It can also eliminate transverse, reflective, and longitudinal cracks. The major advantages for the cold in-place recycling are the potential of cost savings, minimum traffic disruption, ability to retain original profile, reduction of environmental concerns, and a growing concern for depleting petroleum reserves. However, cold in-place recycled pavements require a new wearing surface to be placed as a seal and to restrict moisture intrusion.

Full Depth Reclamation

This rehabilitation technique is often used for pavements exhibiting extensive distress. It involves pulverization of the pavement surface layers and a portion of the granular base for depths of up to 7.8 inches or more. The resulting mixture of asphalt concrete materials and granular or treated (i.e., soil cement) base can then be compacted and used as a granular base or sub-base for the new pavement. It can also be stabilized using bituminous materials, Portland cement, lime and calcium chloride. New granular base material can be added to improve the structural capacity of the pavement followed by the placement of a new riding surface. Advantages of this technique include the reuse of the existing pavement materials and the elimination of potential reflection cracking from an old asphalt concrete layer through the new pavement surface layer.

Perpetual Pavement

Perpetual pavement is defined as an asphalt pavement designed and built to last longer than 50 years without requiring major structural rehabilitation or reconstruction, and needing only periodic surface renewal in response to distresses confined to the top of the pavement. The basic concept is that HMA pavements over a minimum strength are not likely to exhibit structural damage even when subjected to very high traffic flows over long periods of time. Rather, deterioration seems to initiate in the pavement surface as either top-down cracking or rutting. If surface-initiated cracking and rutting can be detected and remedied before they impact the structural integrity of the pavement, the pavement design life could be greatly increased.

Warm Mix Asphalt

Warm mix asphalt is the same as conventional asphalt except it has lower mixing temperature (30 to 100°F lower than hot-mix asphalt). This is achieved by various mechanical and chemical methods to reduce the shear resistance of the mix at the construction temperature while reportedly maintaining or improving pavement performance. The major advantage of warm mix asphalt includes lower fumes emissions, lower energy consumption, lower plant wear consumption, decreased binder aging, early site opening, cool weather paving, and compaction aid for stiff mixes. Currently available warm mix technologies include WAM Foam, Zeolite, Sasobit and Evotherm.

Foam Asphalt

Foamed asphalt is formed by combining hot asphalt binder with small amounts of cold water. When the cold water comes in contact with the hot asphalt binder it turns to steam, which becomes trapped in tiny asphalt binder bubbles. The result is a thin-film, high volume asphalt foam that bitumen has a very large surface area and extremely low viscosity making it ideal for mixing with aggregates. The advantages of using foam asphalt includes increases the shear strength and reduces the moisture susceptibility of granular materials, lower binder and transportation costs, saving in time, energy conservation, and wider temperature workability.
